

Government funding through Traineeships for employers for fmi frontline management programs

.....government funding

Government Funding through Traineeships of $4,000 per eligible employee is available to employers for both new and existing eligible employees who register for the Certificate IV in Frontline Management BSB40807 or the Diploma of Management BSB51107 qualifications with the Frontline Management Institute (fmi). The funding is available in all Australian States and Territories except WA.

This funding is paid directly to the employer organisation and can provide substantial funds for the delivery of these programs.

Funding is $4,000 per eligible employee paid

$1,500 initially (about 3 months from enrolment by the time paid) and

$2,500 upon completion (again a few months delay).

The traineeship duration for the Certificate IV in Frontline Management is 24 months except in VIC and NT where it is 18 Months. The Diploma traineeship duration is 24 months in NSW & SA; 18 months in VIC and NT and 36 months elsewhere. Organisations can for early completion of the traineeship once the qualification is gained after 12 months.

.....eligibility

Funding is generally provided for employees who are Australian residents. For the Certificate IV in Frontline Management they can't have a Certificate or higher qualification in the last 7 years or an Australian Degree however there are exceptions. For the Diploma they are eligible even if they have a previous Certificate.

To find out which employees are eligible employers should contact an Australian Apprenticeship Centre (AAC). If you do not already have an AAC please contact fmi and we can recommend an AAC which has given a great service to employers on our programs

FMI has assisted many organisations in their quest for government funding and would be pleased to advise potential clients on how to apply. Please contact fmi on (02) 9660 0199 to find out more. We will be happy to advise you.

...the fmi Certificate IV or Diploma of Management Program

Delivery of the program with fmi can be in any of the following three ways or a combination of these ways:

1. On-site group of your people trained in your workplace or a venue of your choosing (10 units of one day each for Cert IV, 8 units for Dip Man)
2. fmi Public courses at fmi Sydney, Brisbane or Melbourne see fmi Calendar for dates (ten units for Cert IV, 8 units for Dip Man)
3. Open Learning – people are sent the program by email or on a USB

It is also possible to have people do the Certificate IV in Frontline Management and then later do an upgrade conversion program with us to the Diploma of Management
